You need to fill entry-level jobs every day with qualified candidates. Finding successful candidates for those positions can be difficult. But many candidates are overlooked because of having non-traditional backgrounds. Many of these individuals are resilient, work-ready candidates eager to fill entry-level jobs, despite facing challenges, such as time spent in the foster and juvenile justice systems.

A SMART WAY TO STAFF UP:
MAKE AN IMPACT IN YOUR COMMUNITY WHILE SAVING TIME AND MONEY

The Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, with Los Angeles County and The Coca-Cola Company, is connecting employers with qualified interns, including fully subsidized wages.

PROGRAM FEATURES:

- 8-week internship program
- Interns (18-24 years old) are certified by the Chamber and matched to your industry
- Interns are provided career development training and mentorship at no cost
- L.A. County, through its America’s Job Center, is the employer of record that covers wages and HR management

You need to fill entry-level jobs every day with qualified candidates. Finding successful candidates for those positions can be difficult. But many candidates are overlooked because of having non-traditional backgrounds. Many of these individuals are resilient, work-ready candidates eager to fill entry-level jobs, despite facing challenges, such as time spent in the foster and juvenile justice systems.

- Many large and small employers are reducing costly turnover by hiring loyal young employees
- The average time and approximate cost it takes to fill an open position
- Employment is the most important factor that decreases recidivism

For more information, please contact:
Gerry Feeney | gfeeney@lachamber.com | 213.580.7564

LET US HELP YOU FIND YOUR NEXT GREAT HIRE.