CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Nadine Lee

Deputy Chief Innovation Officer

Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority

Nadine Lee is the Deputy Chief Innovation Officer for Los Angeles County Metro's Office of Extraordinary Innovation. In this role, Nadine launches innovative concepts to provide a more flexible, demand-responsive mobility system in Los Angeles County.

Before moving to Los Angeles, Nadine led the development and implementation of the Flatiron Flyer bus rapid transit for Denver's Regional Transportation District (RTD), a service that marked a 45% growth in daily ridership within the first six months of operation.

In 2015, Nadine led a Leadership APTA team to look at the role of public transport in today's mobility ecosystem. She served two terms on the WTS International Board and participated in the Spring 2009 TCRP International Transit Studies Program where she explored the use of performance measurement in transit service delivery in four Asian cities.

Nadine is a registered Professional Engineer in Colorado and Kansas, and she received her B.S. in Civil Engineering from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

To combat her tendency to behave like a stereotypical engineer, Nadine takes adult beginning ballet three times a week and knits whenever time permits. Nadine and her husband Ted are world travelers and had a short stint as small-batch (home) winemakers

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Honorable Lindsey Horvath
Councilmember
City of West Hollywood

Councilmember Lindsey P. Horvath was elected to the West Hollywood City Council on March 3, 2015. She previously served as a Councilmember for two years from 2009-2011.

Councilmember Horvath has a long history of civic and social justice advocacy. She has spearheaded policies to make West Hollywood an “Age-Friendly Community” to better serve residents of all ages. She also led the City to become the first in the nation to impose financial sanctions on Arizona for its discriminatory, anti-immigration SB-1070 law. Councilmember Horvath created the first-ever West Hollywood Community Response Team to Domestic Violence.

She has worked on a broad range of transportation and mobility issues. She served as a Transportation Commissioner from 2011-2015 and has brought forward policies to reduce traffic and parking problems, and to make West Hollywood more bike and pedestrian friendly. She initiated the West Hollywood Bicycle Task Force, and through her leadership, West Hollywood was named “The Most Walkable” city in the entire state.

Councilmember Horvath is widely known for her leadership on women’s issues and serves as a Global Coordinator for One Billion Rising, a global campaign of the V-Day movement to end violence against women and girls. She is also an Advocate for A Window Between Worlds, UN Foundation, and CARE. She was first appointed to the West Hollywood Women's Advisory Board in 2007, focusing on the issues facing women and families in West Hollywood, and has collaborated with community leaders and organizations in successfully advocating for the full funding of the backlog of untested rape kit evidence in the City and County of Los Angeles.

She is also a champion of LGBTQ rights. She has served as a Board member of the Victory Fund and a founding Board member of the NOH8 Campaign. In 2009, she represented the City of West Hollywood in the National Equality March in Washington DC. She has also advocated for LGBTQ older adults through her work on the Board of Services & Advocacy for GLBT Elders (SAGE).

Councilmember Horvath represented the City of West Hollywood on the Los Angeles County Library Commission and on the Executive Board of California Contract Cities. Councilmember Horvath also served on the Los Angeles Unified School District Redistricting Commission in 2011.

In addition to her service as an elected official, Councilmember Horvath works as an entertainment advertising executive, and has created award-winning campaigns for movies and television. Councilmember Horvath graduated Cum Laude with a B.A. in Political Science and Gender Studies from the University of Notre Dame.
